The ABC of Women's Visions and practices for prosperous, inclusive, resilient and peaceful Urban Future

ABC idei i działań kobiet na rzecz dostatniej, zintegrowanej, trwałej i pokojowej przyszłości miast

Panel 1

THE NEW ALPHABET FOR URBAN PLANNING

The pandemic crisis has made evident the pending issues and the structural problems of sustainability: the environmental fragility of ecosystems, human frailties, especially of the elderly, people with disabilities, the homeless, migrants, the lack of risk planning and its impacts, starting with gender, lack of public or affordable housing, and proximity services. In this context, the post-pandemic is an opportunity that cannot be missed for a season of new visions of cities that focus on the right of all to live in humane, fair, inclusive, safe and sustainable settlements. For this reason, it is necessary to experiment with new paths and identify new subjects to guide them. It is time to start again from women's realities and with women. From an urbanism of everyday life, the city of care, and with an intersectional gender perspective relying on approaches that put people at the center of planning.

ASYMMETRIC ACCESS TO PARTICIPATION AND DECISION-MAKING PROCESSES

Words are used to learn, to communicate and have great power, which increases with their greater knowledge. Those who know more words have more power and have more possibilities to modify and contribute to changing reality because they know how to describe and interpret it. The technical and professional language communicates often in an asymmetrical way and is not always simple and easy for the person who is not an expert in the field. This makes it even more difficult for women and girls to access participation and decision-making processes regarding the future of their urban environment.

WOMEN'S LIVES, ACTIONS AND NEEDS DURING CONFLICT

The panel will address the issue of the full inclusion of refugee women in aid and support measures during the emergency phase also through the planning and design of the temporary use of housing, services and spaces in the city, at a time when the Ukraine is devastated by war and all of Europe is threatened by serious conflicts.
