And how did they construct historical or legal representations of other empires?- What kind of transimperial networks did they strive to construct in an attempt to elaborate their own model of colonial politics?- Is it possible to identify turning points in the Belgian "politics of comparison" and in the ties transimperial ties forged during the period examined?- How did the international circulation of imperial models influence jurists and administrators of Belgium in the period under consideration? The characteristics of the Checks are given in Annex A of this notice, which in particular lists, for each Assignment:- the scientific area of interest and the scientific-disciplinary field- the location and duration of the Assignment- the gross amount per year net of charges to be paid by the University- the presumed date of beginning of the activity- the compatibility or otherwise of the Assignment contract with teaching activities of teaching or integrative teaching- the description of the research program to be carried out and the funding body (where applicable)- the scientific responsible, if already identified- the required scientific experience- the maximum number of scientific publications or other research products that may be submitted for the purpose of this selection.

Article 6 – Evaluation procedure

The selection committee includes three members chosen among university professors and researchers. The committee must conclude the selection within sixty days from the notification of the appointment decree. A person from the administrative staff can participate in the work of the committee with the only task of taking minutes.

In the first meeting, the committee will decide the criteria and methods for evaluating the candidates' qualifications and for the interview, as formalized in the relative minutes. The overall evaluation score for each candidate is 100 points, of which 20 points are for the qualifications, 25 points for the research project and 55 points for the interview.

Before the evaluation of qualifications, the selection committee verifies the equivalence of the required degrees (Article 2) obtained in foreign countries. When assessing qualifications, the committee must assign a separate score, in compliance with the above indications, to each of the following items:

- final grade of the Master Degree or equivalent;
- publications and other research output submitted for evaluation purposes, within the maximum number given in Annex A of the notice; the Master Degree (or equivalent) thesis or the doctoral dissertation can be evaluated as one of the publications;
- any diplomas of specialization or of completion of other post-graduate programs;
- other qualifications related to the research activity carried out, such as research contracts, scholarships, and appointments in universities or in national or international research bodies.

The assessment will consider the consistency of the qualifications with the scientific area of interest and/or the scientific sector as well as with the requested scientific experience. In evaluating publications and other research output, the committee will also consider the following general criteria: originality, innovativeness, and rigorousness in the methodology; scientific relevance of the publisher/journal and level of diffusion within the scientific community; individual contribution of the candidate.

Next, the committee will have to assign a score to the research proposal presented by the candidate, in compliance with the above indications.

The minimum score of qualifications and of the research proposal required for admission to the interview is a total of 25/100.

The publication date of the results of the qualification evaluation and the convocation date for the interview are reported in Annex A. This notice constitutes formal notification of convocation for the candidates

The interview of a candidate can take place by videoconference, as long as proper identification of the candidate is guaranteed and the interview is open to the public. The interview can be held in English or in another foreign language that is relevant to the planned research activity. At the end of all the interviews, the selection committee will publish the candidates' scores.

The committee will publish the overall ranking in descending order of the total score, adding up the score of the qualifications and of the research proposal (if applicable) to that of the interview. In the event of a tie, priority will be given to the youngest candidate. Only candidates who have obtained an overall score that exceeds or is equal to 70 /100 will be considered suitable for the position.

The minutes of the selection procedure are approved by decree of the Department Director. The same decree indicates the deadline for accepting the position. The fellowship(s) is/are awarded to the first suitable candidate(s), according to the ranking order. If the awardees renounce or do not formally accept within the indicated deadline or if they do not obtain the required degree by the date indicated in Annex A (if applicable), the fellowship(s) will be awarded to the next suitable candidate(s) according to the ranking order.

The fellowship award is conditional to the candidate signing the corresponding contract with the designated Department within the deadline that will be specified by the Department itself.

Article 7 – Activities and obligations of fellowship holders

The planned date of start for the research activity is indicated in Annex A. The date is reasonably flexible, as long as its variations do not affect the planned research activity and the financial coverage of the fellowship. Fellowship holders will have to carry out their activity within the research project that they have proposed, under the supervision of a faculty member appointed by the Department and in compliance with the following criteria: work flexibility within the limitations of the research requirements, work continuity, fixed term, coordination with the overall activity of the University, close link with the realization of the planned research program, autonomous development of the collaboration within the program, absence of predetermined working hours, ex post reporting of the working hours when required by the administration.

To carry out their research activities, fellowship holders have the right to use the facilities, equipment, and services of the Department hosting their research, based on the same regulations that apply to the other researchers of the Department. They can also receive travel (mission) assignments as part of their research activities.

The fellowship holder may carry out unpaid teaching-assistance activities, subject to the authorization of the research supervisor. If not explicitly excluded in Annex A of this notice, the fellowship holder may also carry out paid teaching activities on contracts pursuant to art. 23, paragraph 2, of Italian Law 240/2010, subject to the authorization of the Department Director on the advice of the research supervisor. The award of a teaching contract that implies the responsibility for a module or a course is only allowed to holders of postdoctoral fellowships. The overall teaching activity, carried out in any capacity, excluding seminars, cannot exceed 60 frontal (class) hours per year.

On a regular basis, according to a schedule set by the Department, fellowship holders must submit a written report on their research activity, endorsed by the research supervisor. At the end of the fellowship, the holder must submit a final report which, accompanied by the evaluation of the research supervisor, will be assessed by the Department governing body.

Fellowships cannot in any way be equated to subordinate employment relationship and do not give rise to any rights in regard to accessing permanent university positions.

Article 8 – Incompatibilities, leaves of absence, and interruptions

The fellowship is individual. Under penalty of its forfeiture, beneficiaries cannot combine it with income deriving from professional activities or other continuous employment relationships. Moreover, fellowships cannot be combined with other scholarships, except for those granted to support stays abroad aimed at carrying out part of the research activity.

The fellowship is also not compatible with the enrollment in bachelor's or master's degree programs or equivalents, in PhD programs with award of a scholarship, and in medical or healthcare specialization programs, in Italy or abroad. Enrollment in a PhD program without receiving a corresponding scholarship is allowed.

Fellowship holders are not allowed to hold concurrently other appointments within the University, except for the provisions of Article 7. Without prejudice to the full performance of their duties, fellowship holders may exceptionally request to carry out assignments external to the University, provided they are occasional and of short duration, do not involve a conflict of interest with the research activity of the fellowship holder, and do not, in any case, prejudice the University. Such assignments are subject to the authorization of the Department governing body, on the advice of the research supervisor.

Fellowships can be awarded to public administration employees, provided they are placed on unpaid leave for the duration of the contract.

The research activity is suspended during the period of compulsory maternity leave or for duly proven sickness; the overall duration of the contract cannot be reduced due to such suspensions. It is also possible to suspend the grant for other serious reasons that prevent the research from being carried out, at the request of the research supervisor and with the approval of the Department governing body, as long as the suspension does not affect the financial coverage of the grant. An overall period of justified absence not exceeding thirty days in a year does not constitute suspension and, consequently, is not to be recovered.

Article 9 – Taxation, social security, and insurance treatment

Taxation, social security, compulsory maternity leave, and sick leave for the fellowships of this call are regulated by Article 22, paragraph 6, of Italian Law no. 240/ 2010. In the period of compulsory maternity leave, the allowance paid by INPS pursuant to art. 5 of the decree of the Minister of Labor and Social Security of 12 July 2007 is supplemented by the University up to the full amount of the salary.

The University provides insurance coverage in favor of fellowship holders, including third-party liability, for accidents occurring during their research activity.

Article 10 – Forfeiture, withdrawal, termination

Those who do not sign the fellowship contract within the deadline communicated by the Department lose the right to sign it, except if the delay occurs for reasons of health or force majeure which are duly and promptly proven by the candidate. The same forfeiture occurs to those who provide false declarations regarding the possession of the requirements, or the lack of incompatibilities referred to in Articles 3 and 8 of this notice, without prejudice to the additional sanctions provided by law.

The fellowship holder may withdraw from the contract, upon written notification to the Department with at least 15 days' notice. The payment of the last month will be commensurate with the period of activity carried out. In case of lack of notice by the fellowship holder, the University has the right to withhold or recover from the research fellow an amount corresponding to the salary for the period of notice not given.

A procedure for terminating the contract can be started on a motivated proposal of the research supervisor approved by the Department governing body. This can occur if the fellowship holder, after starting the planned research activity, does not continue it regularly and uninterruptedly for the entire period, without justified reason, or if the fellowship holder is responsible for serious and repeated failures or non-compliance. Specific causes of termination may be the following: unjustified failure to start the activity or delay in the actual start of the activity; unjustified suspension of the activity for a period that jeopardizes the research program; violation of the incompatibility regime reiterated after a first notice; a negative opinion on the research carried out, expressed by the Department governing body.

Article 11 – Handling of personal data

Pursuant to EU Regulation no. 679/2016, candidates are informed that their personal data will be processed, in paper or electronic form, for the sole purposes of this procedure, of the possible formulation of the employment contract and of its subsequent management.

The handling will be carried out by the persons in charge of the procedure, as well as by the selection committee, with the use of computerized procedures, in the ways and within the limits necessary to pursue the aforementioned purposes, even in the event of communication to third parties.

The conferral of such personal data is necessary for the evaluation, for the verification of the requirements and of the actual possession of the declared qualifications. Failure to provide them may preclude such obligations and, in the cases provided for in the notice, may result in exclusion from the selection procedure. Further data may be requested from candidates for the aforementioned purpose only.

Collected data may be disclosed to subjects entitled by the Italian Law no. 241/1990, of Legislative Decree 33/2013 and their subsequent amendments and additions.

The personal data on candidates will be stored, in accordance with the provisions of current legislation, for a time not exceeding that necessary to achieve the purposes for which they are processed.

Pursuant to the GDPR 2016/679, the University of Naples Federico II may publish on its website the Curriculum Vitae of the winner, for the institutional purposes and in compliance with Italian Legislative Decree no. 33/2013 (Transparency Decree) as amended by Legislative Decree 97/2016.

It is understood that, in addition to the complete Curriculum Vitae, it will be possible for the winner to provide a specific version of the Curriculum Vitae without personal data, for the sole purpose of publication on the University website.

Candidates are granted the rights referred to in the third chapter of EU Regulation no. 679/2016, including the right to access their personal data, to request their correction, updating and cancellation, if incomplete, erroneous or collected in violation of the law, as well as the right to oppose their processing for legitimate reasons. Further information on the procedures for possible complaints and on the responsibilities of data protection are available on the dedicated website, at the address <http://www.unina.it/ateneo/statuto-e-normativa/privacy>.

Title of the research program	Imperial Entanglements: Latecomer Colonial Empires and the “Politics of Comparison” (1880s-1940s)
Brief description of research program	"Imperial Entanglements" investigates four cases of late imperialism, viz. namely those of Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan. Each of these countries did not enter the phase of colonial expansion until the late 19th century. Because of this delay, when their power elites and experts modeled new structures of imperial governance, they had to consider existing models of colonial government and administration as previously established by other powers. In search of original visions of their imperial project, they critically confronted the models existing ones, adopting, reshaping or rejecting their constituent features. Our study of the circulation and reworking of political models ranges from 1880 to 1940, embracing both the so-called Age of Empires and the post-Wilsonian moment, when colonialism was profoundly reshaped around the world due to the emergence of strong anticolonial movements. The research hinges on two pillars. The first is what Ann L. Stoler called the "politics of comparison," or how each state compared its colonial rule with that of others. This concept highlights the importance of knowledge transfers as a constitutive part of empire-building, but also highlights the light the "politics" of building models and distancing oneself from the other. The second is the focus on transimperial actors, whether intellectuals, politicians or institutions. The research grant specifically focuses on the case of Belgium. The research will focus on the following questions:

- How did Belgium's politicians and intellectual elites represent the Belgian empire and its colonial policies in relation to other empires? And in what ways did they construct historical or legal representations of other empires?
- What kind of transimperial networks did they strive to construct in an attempt to elaborate their own model of colonial politics?
- Is it possible to identify turning points in the Belgian "politics of comparison" and the transimperial ties forged in the period examined?
- How did the international circulation of imperial models influence jurists and administrators in Belgium during the period under consideration?

Although the contract does not require a fixed residence in Naples, the research fellow is instead required to be present during certain periods that will be agreed upon with the PI, in order to participate in joint initiatives, discuss the progress of the project and coordinate with all the researchers who are part of it, as well as being required to collaborate intensively in the successful overall success of the project.
